Dedication

We, the members of the graduating Class of 1943, as an everlasting tribute to dedicate this book.

CHARLES H. KLEFFMAN

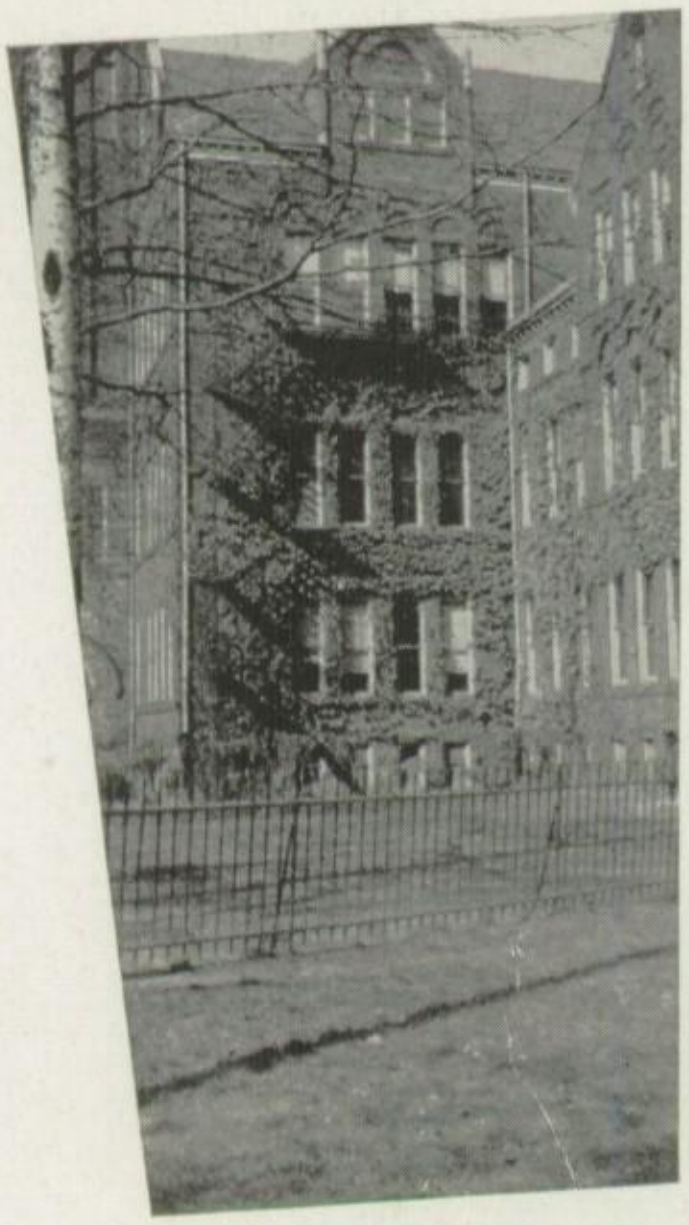
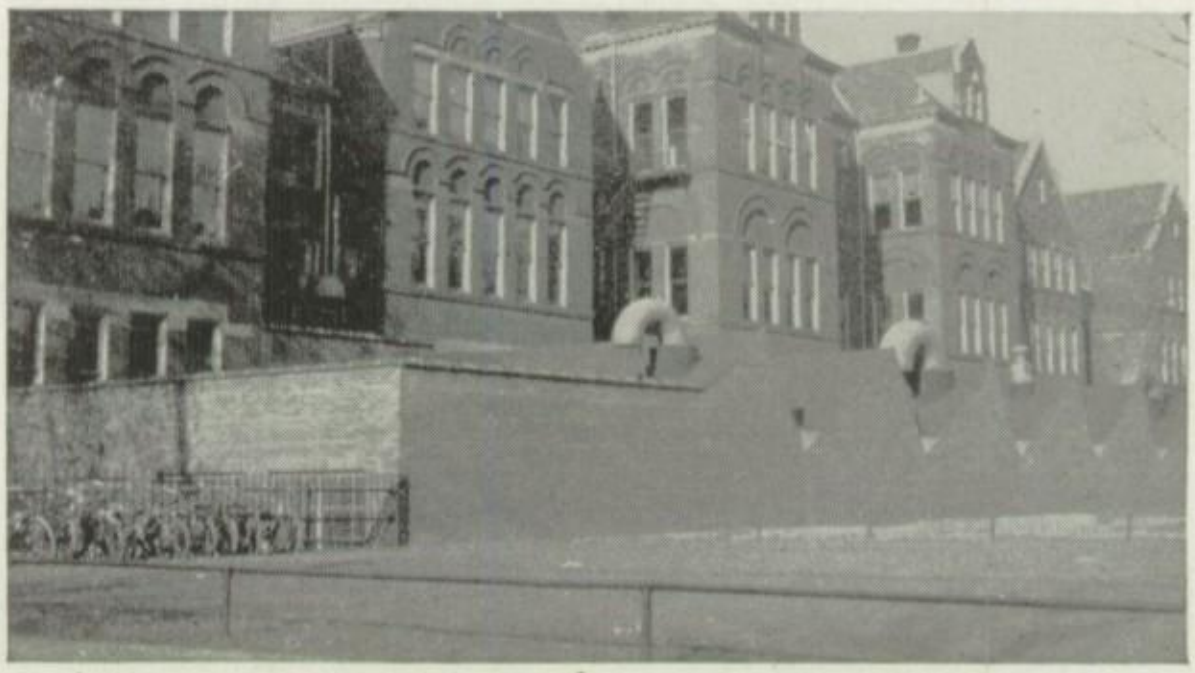
Through his untiring efforts and guidance he has enabled us to continue through these dark days of the present strife.





Equality

Look at the best of them, young man;
They were as you were when they began—
Two strong hands, a head held high
Faith in self, will to try.

The same barriers blocked their goal
They fought the same gales, they dared the shoals,
No more had they than you;
Have faith in yourself, and you will win through.

—Ray Bertone.

United We Stand

Oh how I love this country,
A place to stay; not of your mastery,
For all its given to me
And given so willingly.

To love life as you can
And not by Hitler' plan,
To do as you please; most anything;
And come as one would bring—

A foundation for this government,
And all the things to be sent,
To the loved land of United States,
The only land with open gates.

Card Day Is Coming

As Card Day draws near
We all tread that certain fear,
For those D's and E's
That bring back memories.

Memories of days gone by:
We did not study, why?
We had other things to do;
But, never thought we could fail too.

The next time we shall reform,
So that we could bettr perform
Our duties as students of Technical High,
And not later, leave the school with a sigh.

Solitude

My friend have left me one by one,
They've answered their country's call.
The last has left me. He has gone,
And left me with no friends at all.

One is winging through the light blue sky,
Just as some day I hope to.
When he left, he hated to say "good-bye".
He just said, "I'll be seeing you."

Some day when htis war is ended,
They'll all come safely back home,
Those boys that I had befriended,
Will have smashed Berlin, Tokyo and Rome!
